

I am deeply, deeply concerned about the potential health hazards of broadband over powerlines. I've heard stories about the electromagnetic interference they create and it sounds like something that scientists 50 years from now will discover causes cancer.

I'm not one of those tin-foil hat wearing types, but this needs to be looked at.